Elevator Pitch

October 20, 2022

* AUTHOR'S NOTE*

I just had my wisdom teeth out so I am not feeling very much like being on camera; for this week at least. I am happy to write something up for now and maybe I can wait a week or so to actually record live. I hope you can understand that if I am going to pitch myself, I would like to feel confident about it! And right now I feel pretty far from it!

I will preface by saying that I recently started a remote job with ezCater, and I absolutely love working for this company. I have no intention of leaving them, but rather making myself more qualified to stay. My goal here is to get to my 6 month mark and then be in a position to be ready for anything! What I wrote I anticipate using in my next job interview with them as they begin to tap Agents for other roles once they make it to 6 months.

Thank you for understanding

I'm Sarandë Jackson and I have been with ezCater for 6 months as a Customer Service Agent.

Working for this company has been such a joy, between the people I get to work with, the culture that feels so inclusive and genuine and the fact that I have a hand in bringing food to the people and I don't even need to chop onions or wait tables to do it! I consider myself very fortunate to have found and excelled in this role within such a great company.

Now that I have been here for 6 months, I know there are more possibilities for me, more opportunities throughout ezCater and I am eager to learn more about them. I have spent the past 18 weeks preparing for whatever may come my way by enrolling in a front end coding bootcamp and realized just how many doors could be open to me with the skills I have learned. There are so many avenues to excel in here, and the knowledge I have gained between working the front lines on the phone, while learning lines of code, I have put myself in a position to explore more of what this company has to offer.

I look forward to learning more about what positions would be a good fit for me here with the base of qualifications I have accumulated in my career and I am excited to see what the next 6 months will bring.
